

Oppgave 1

Read the text. Click on the correct picture.

Emma used to have long, wavy hair. She is a preschool teacher and, last week, there was a lice epidemic at her school. Almost everyone got lice and had to use a special shampoo to get rid of them. Emma couldn't be bothered and decided to shave off her hair instead.

< Forrige

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

...

40

Neste >

Oppgave 2

Read the text. Click on the correct picture.

Georgiana loved working in her garden and was proud of her beautiful roses. Sometimes she would make lovely bouquets and give them to her neighbours. When working in the garden, she would wear her old sweater with a button at the neck.

◀ Forrige

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 3

Read the text. Click on the correct picture.

Donnie is a film director and is casting actors for his new crime thriller. He would like a slightly older actor to play the police detective and has had a number of actors auditioning. The first to audition, an actor with a bald head and big beard, impressed Donnie, but he spoke too quietly. In the end, Donnie opted for an actor with a similar beard but a thick head of hair. Click on the actor that will play the detective.

◀ Forrige

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 4

Read the text. Click and drag.

It was Marcia's birthday and she had asked for all sorts of water toys: balls, pistols, float planes, and sea creatures. Her mother had started to set the table for the party. She put the plastic cups out first, then went to get the cake. A gust of wind picked up the cups and dropped them in the water between Marcia's inflatable and the table. Put the items that were moved where they landed.

< Forrige

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

...

40

Neste >

Oppgave 5

Read the text. Click and drag.

Claire is sitting on a beach chair, enjoying the sunshine and watching people surf. There are people selling things on the beach, such as fresh crabs and souvenirs. As it's so hot, Claire buys a hat; it looks like a sea shell. She puts it on and continues sunbathing. Put Claire's new hat on her.

< Forrige

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

...

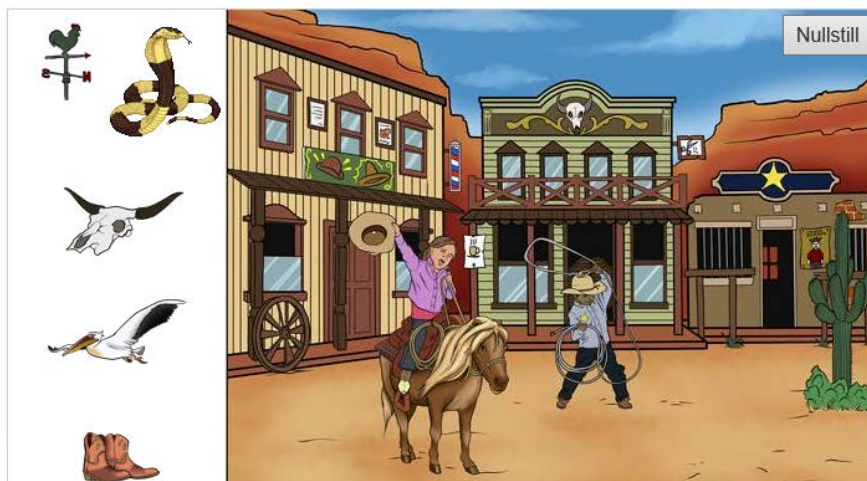

40

Neste >

Oppgave 6

Read the text. Click and drag.

At the Wild West theme Park, the front of the café is decorated with an animal skull. Another shop used to have the same decoration, but it fell off the wall and landed in front of the wagon wheel. Put the item where it is lying.

< Forrige

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

...

40

Neste >

Oppgave 7

Look at the picture. Click on the correct text.

Barry's grandad is partly bald, with some white hair on the sides. He also has a wart on his nose. Today, he's wearing a shirt with the top button undone.

Helen's grandad is wearing a jacket over a polo-neck jumper. He is very proud of the fact that he still has all his hair, even if it's white now.

Walter's grandad is normally in a good mood, but he looks quite serious today. He has a thick moustache and is wearing a plain grey shirt and bead necklace.

Monica's grandad is an incredibly nice man. He's very easy to spot, as he's always wearing the same jumper, and he needs thick glasses in order to see.

◀ Forrige

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 8

Read the sentence. Click on the correct text.

Click on the text about a joke that made people feel they were in danger.

APRIL FOOLS JOKES

On April 1, 1962, a technical expert for Swedish television appeared on the news. He informed the public that their black-and-white TVs could now show programmes in colour. All they had to do was pull a nylon stocking over the screen; the mesh would bend the light so the image would appear in colour. Many tried this, but colour TV was not available until 1970.

On April 1, 1974, clouds of black smoke were seen rising from Mount Edgecumbe in Alaska. Terrified residents of the nearby town of Sitka feared that the long dormant volcano was going to erupt. The smoke was man-made, however; a local trickster had flown hundreds of old tyres up the mountain and set them on fire to fool the residents.

On April 1, 1978, what appeared to be a giant iceberg was towed into Sydney Harbour in Australia. A local businessman had been advertising his plan to transport an iceberg from Antarctica, and sell unique ice cubes from it for ten cents. But when the rain set in, it became obvious that the iceberg was just sheets of plastic covered with firefighting foam and shaving cream.

On April 1, 1976, a famous astronomer announced on the morning news that, at 9:47 a.m., Pluto would pass behind Jupiter. He said this would lessen Earth's own gravity, so if people jumped in the air at that exact moment they would feel as if they were floating. The radio station received hundreds of calls from listeners who imagined they had experienced this sensation.

< Forrige

1

...

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

...

40

Neste >

Oppgave 9

Read the sentence. Click on the correct text.

Click on the text that mentions someone who caused a massive disaster.

In 2017, an accident occurred when Princess Astrid of Belgium was to signal the start of an annual road race. She fired the starting gun right next to Prime Minister Charles Michel's ear, causing serious damage. He had to clear his schedule for the rest of the day and go to hospital, where he was diagnosed with tinnitus.

A footballer, Paulo Diogo, had a serious accident in 2004. He climbed the metal barrier separating the fans from the pitch, in order to celebrate a goal. His wedding ring then got stuck in the barrier, and his finger was severely injured and later had to be amputated. To make matters worse, the referee gave Diogo a yellow card, reprimanding him for time-wasting.

In California, in the fall of 2003, a novice hunter got lost in the woods. He lit a signal flare and unintentionally started a fire that spread quickly. At the time it was the largest fire in California's history, destroying nearly 300,000 acres and more than 2,500 homes. The damage was estimated at 1.24 billion dollars.

In 1969, when NASA landed the first people on the moon, the whole world was watching. At some point after this, someone made a monumental blunder. The original tapes of the moon landing were sent off with 200,000 other tapes to be magnetically erased and reused to save money. NASA has since digitally restored the tapes.

◀ Forrige

1

...

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 10

Read the sentences. Click on the correct text.

Click on the text that mentions a later career being more financially rewarding than the sporting career.

What happens when sports stars retire? The following examples of athletes' post-sporting careers may come as a surprise!

From 1969-1997, George Foreman was one of the world's most famous and successful boxers. Once he hung up his boxing gloves for good, Foreman lent his name to a kitchen grill that can cook meat, fish and vegetables. George eventually made more money from this endorsement than he did during his entire boxing career!

Some sports stars like to stay active and move on to jobs that are even more physical. The German football goalkeeper Tim Wiese decided, after 15 seasons, to become a professional wrestler in the USA. He has since gained 43 kg of muscle and is currently training to face some very different opponents from those in his football days!

Possibly the most successful post-sports career was enjoyed by Gerald Ford. A talented American football player, Ford was a line-backer for his college team. He was later offered contracts by two professional teams in the National Football League. However, he decided to pursue a political career and went on to become US President!

One of the most unexpected career changes came from the Dutch football player Arjan De Zeeuw. He mostly played in England before returning to his native Netherlands, where he began police training. Once his training was completed, he became a forensic investigator for the police and has investigated many crimes.

< Forrige

1

...

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

...

40

Neste >

Oppgave 11

Read the text. Click on the correct word(s).

The world's most expensive rice has been produced in Japan. The product costs approximately $110 per kilo. The high price is supposedly due to the rice of five different rice types from various parts of Japan. In addition, the ripening process is very long. The producers claim that the world's best rice. A newspaper reports that everything is on schedule, and the rice sold outside Japan from November, as planned.

Read the text. Click on the correct word(s).

The world's most expensive rice has been produced in Japan. The product costs approximately $110 per kilo. The high price is supposedly due to the rice of five different rice types from various parts of Japan. In addition, the ripening process is very long. The producers claim that the world's best rice. A newspaper reports that everything is on schedule, and the rice sold outside Japan from November, as planned.

consists consist consisted consisting

Read the text. Click on the correct word(s).

The world's most expensive rice has been produced in Japan. The product costs approximately $110 per kilo. The high price is supposedly due to the rice of five different rice types from various parts of Japan. In addition, the ripening process is very long. The producers claim that the world's best rice. A newspaper reports that everything is on schedule, and the rice sold outside Japan from November, as planned.

there is there were it is it was

Read the text. Click on the correct word(s).

The world's most expensive rice has been produced in Japan. The product costs approximately $110 per kilo. The high price is supposedly due to the rice of five different rice types from various parts of Japan. In addition, the ripening process is very long. The producers claim that the world's best rice. A newspaper reports that everything is on schedule, and the rice sold outside Japan from November, as planned.

will be would have may have might be

< Forrige

1

...

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

...

40

Neste >

Oppgave 12

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Monica's dad loves his car. He likes to work on the engine and he likes to polish it to keep it in perfect condition. Last month, he ordered a new gear box from an online shop. He worked all weekend in the garage, replacing the old gear box. He was very happy when the work was done, and he took the car out for test drive with Monica. The engine sounded terrific and the gear box to work perfectly. Dad was very satisfied with his work. When they returned home though, he tried to back the car into the garage. It turned that the gear box did not work in reverse! Dad was outraged and blamed the online shop for trying to swindle him!

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Monica's dad loves his car. He likes to work on the engine and he likes to polish it to keep it in perfect condition. Last month, he ordered a new gear box from an online shop. He worked all weekend in the garage, replacing the old gear box. He was very happy when the work was done, and he took the car out for test drive with Monica. The engine sounded terrific and the gear box to work perfectly. Dad was very satisfied with his work. When they returned home though, he tried to back the car into the garage. It turned that the gear box did not work in reverse! Dad was outraged and blamed the online shop for trying to swindle him!

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Monica's dad loves his car. He likes to work on the engine and he likes to polish it to keep it in perfect condition. Last month, he ordered a new gear box from an online shop. He worked all weekend in the garage, replacing the old gear box. He was very happy when the work was done, and he took the car out for test drive with Monica. The engine sounded terrific and the gear box to work perfectly. Dad was very satisfied with his work. When they returned home though, he tried to back the car into the garage. It turned that the gear box did not work in reverse! Dad was outraged and blamed the online shop for trying to swindle him!

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Monica's dad loves his car. He likes to work on the engine and he likes to polish it to keep it in perfect condition. Last month, he ordered a new gear box from an online shop. He worked all weekend in the garage, replacing the old gear box. He was very happy when the work was done, and he took the car out for test drive with Monica. The engine sounded terrific and the gear box to work perfectly. Dad was very satisfied with his work. When they returned home though, he tried to back the car into the garage. It turned that the gear box did not work in reverse! Dad was outraged and blamed the online shop for trying to swindle him!

Oppgave 13

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Education was important to the ancient Romans. Rich people put a great deal of faith in education. Boys from rich families were well-educated and were either taught by a private tutor at home or went to school. Public schools were for boys only, but some girls were sent to private schools.

While the poor did not receive a formal education, many still learned to read and write. Learning in Roman schools was based on fear, and boys were beaten for the slightest offence. It was believed that a boy would learn if he feared being caned for his mistakes.

What would happen to pupils if they made a mistake in class?

- ☐ They were sent to a private school.
- ☐ They were given private tuition.
- ☐ They were expelled from school.
- ☐ They were beaten with a stick.

◀ Forrige

1

...

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 14

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Zoe and Ben's mum thinks that they spend too much time on their phones, but they disagree. Their mum is worried that they won't be able to concentrate on homework or after-school activities, but she becomes most annoyed if Zoe and Ben use their phones at the dinner table. She has made a new system to stop this. Everyone in the family puts their phones in the middle of the table, and the first person to pick up their phone has to wash the dishes after dinner. Ben and Zoe haven't checked their phones at dinner even once this week!

Which of the following is true about Zoe and Ben's mum?

- ☐ She wants Zoe and Ben to wash dishes.
- ☐ She gets annoyed when they skip homework.
- ☐ She has taken Zoe and Ben's phones away.
- ☐ She has found a new way to limit phone use.

◀ Forrige

1

...

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 15

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

King was a very clever dog, who liked to go to work with his master. Right outside the shop where his master worked, there was a peanut vending machine. King's master was fond of peanuts and often bought some, which they then shared.

One day, when King had been left in the car, he hopped out of the open window and headed for the vending machine. He sat down in front of it and started begging. A passer-by put a coin in the machine and bought some peanuts for him. That was the start of a new venture! Whenever he had the chance, King would beg at the machine, and someone always bought him some peanuts!

What is this text mainly about?

- ☐ King's love of cars
- ☐ King's master's love of cars
- ☐ King's unusual habit
- ☐ King's master's unusual habit

← Forrige

1

...

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

...

40

Neste →

Oppgave 16

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

You have probably heard of David Beckham, the famous football, fashion and media star. But what you might not know is that there was a 2002 film called Bend It Like Beckham, based on some football-playing girls from London who were huge fans of David Beckham. David decided not to appear in the film, as he thought that he would be a "horrible, stiff actor". However, in 2017, David did indeed act in a film, although not a film about football; he had a small role as a knight in a film about the famous King Arthur. He might not win an Oscar any time soon, but he seems to like the idea of acting!

What is this text mainly about?

- ☐ David Beckham and films
- ☐ David Beckham and football
- ☐ David Beckham and his friends
- ☐ David Beckham and his fans

◀ Forrige

1

...

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 17

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Scientists believe that the water in icebergs is the purest on earth. It froze and was locked inside the ice before the earth became polluted by industry. People who live in areas where icebergs have come to a standstill are able to drink this very pure water. But most of us aren't lucky enough to have access to icebergs, or to be able to afford genuine iceberg water in bottles. Fortunately though, water ionizer machines now exist, which can give our tap water qualities that are believed to match the water from icebergs.

What does the writer suggest as the easiest way for most of us to get pure water?

- ☐ Go to a place where icebergs are standing.
- ☐ Buy genuine bottled iceberg water.
- ☐ Find unpolluted water locked into ice.
- ☐ Use a machine that treats tap water.

← Forrige

1

...

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

...

40

Neste →

Oppgave 18

QUESTION 1/5

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Many kids take their parents for granted and don't think about how much work parents actually do around the house, like cooking and cleaning. This was the case in the Thomson family. Mrs. Thomson constantly had to pick up smelly socks from the bathroom floor, and Mr. Thomson found himself collecting dirty dishes from around the house, because the kids were always on their phones and couldn't be bothered to clean up after themselves. One day, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson realized that, unless some changes were made, their three children would become lazy. In addition, if the chores were shared, they'd have more quality family time.

They held a family meeting where they explained to their children Katie, Carl, and Phil that they had made some new family rules. Chores would be assigned to each family member. If a chore was not completed within the designated time, and there was no valid excuse, money would be deducted from the culprit's allowance. Also, the Wi-Fi password would be changed every day and would only be given out when homework was completed, unless the Internet was needed in order to do their homework.

At first, the kids were outraged! Nobody else's parents were this strict! Carl nearly started hyperventilating at the thought of not having unlimited Internet access. However, their parents explained that they were tired of cleaning up after them, and that working fulltime and having to do everything at home was just too much. The kids then realized that it was only fair that everybody pulled their weight.

Mrs. Thomson made a list and assigned chores to each person in the family, and Mr. Thomson made a weekly schedule to hang on the fridge. Even though Dad's white shirts sometimes turned pink because Phil forgot to separate the colors when doing the laundry, everyone seemed genuinely pleased and less stressed. Katie found herself looking forward to the day when it was her turn to cook dinner, and Carl learned that it was possible to have a life without being online all the time. With everyone pitching in, the family had more time to spend together.

What is this text mainly about?

- ☐ Making changes
- ☐ Carefree children
- ☐ Unreasonable parents
- ☐ Avoiding responsibility

◀ Forrige

1

...

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

...

40

Neste >

Oppgave 19

QUESTION 2/5

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Many kids take their parents for granted and don't think about how much work parents actually do around the house, like cooking and cleaning. This was the case in the Thomson family. Mrs. Thomson constantly had to pick up smelly socks from the bathroom floor, and Mr. Thomson found himself collecting dirty dishes from around the house, because the kids were always on their phones and couldn't be bothered to clean up after themselves. One day, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson realized that, unless some changes were made, their three children would become lazy. In addition, if the chores were shared, they'd have more quality family time.

They held a family meeting where they explained to their children Katie, Carl, and Phil that they had made some new family rules. Chores would be assigned to each family member. If a chore was not completed within the designated time, and there was no valid excuse, money would be deducted from the culprit's allowance. Also, the Wi-Fi password would be changed every day and would only be given out when homework was completed, unless the Internet was needed in order to do their homework.

At first, the kids were outraged! Nobody else's parents were this strict! Carl nearly started hyperventilating at the thought of not having unlimited Internet access. However, their parents explained that they were tired of cleaning up after them, and that working fulltime and having to do everything at home was just too much. The kids then realized that it was only fair that everybody pulled their weight.

Mrs. Thomson made a list and assigned chores to each person in the family, and Mr. Thomson made a weekly schedule to hang on the fridge. Even though Dad's white shirts sometimes turned pink because Phil forgot to separate the colors when doing the laundry, everyone seemed genuinely pleased and less stressed. Katie found herself looking forward to the day when it was her turn to cook dinner, and Carl learned that it was possible to have a life without being online all the time. With everyone pitching in, the family had more time to spend together.

What was an outcome of the new rules?

- ☐ The kids did all the laundry.
- ☐ The kids cooked dinner every day of the week.
- ☐ The parents kept doing all the tidying up.
- ☐ The parents had more time to spend with their kids.

Oppgave 20

QUESTION 3/5

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Many kids take their parents for granted and don't think about how much work parents actually do around the house, like cooking and cleaning. This was the case in the Thomson family. Mrs. Thomson constantly had to pick up smelly socks from the bathroom floor, and Mr. Thomson found himself collecting dirty dishes from around the house, because the kids were always on their phones and couldn't be bothered to clean up after themselves. One day, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson realized that, unless some changes were made, their three children would become lazy. In addition, if the chores were shared, they'd have more quality family time.

They held a family meeting where they explained to their children Katie, Carl, and Phil that they had made some new family rules. Chores would be assigned to each family member. If a chore was not completed within the designated time, and there was no valid excuse, money would be deducted from the culprit's allowance. Also, the Wi-Fi password would be changed every day and would only be given out when homework was completed, unless the Internet was needed in order to do their homework.

At first, the kids were outraged! Nobody else's parents were this strict! Carl nearly started hyperventilating at the thought of not having unlimited Internet access. However, their parents explained that they were tired of cleaning up after them, and that working fulltime and having to do everything at home was just too much. The kids then realized that it was only fair that everybody pulled their weight.

Mrs. Thomson made a list and assigned chores to each person in the family, and Mr. Thomson made a weekly schedule to hang on the fridge. Even though Dad's white shirts sometimes turned pink because Phil forgot to separate the colors when doing the laundry, everyone seemed genuinely pleased and less stressed. Katie found herself looking forward to the day when it was her turn to cook dinner, and Carl learned that it was possible to have a life without being online all the time. With everyone pitching in, the family had more time to spend together.

What was the kids' initial reaction to the new rules?

- ☐ To cry
- ☐ To protest
- ☐ To laugh
- ☐ To agree

◀ Forrige

1

...

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 21

QUESTION 4/5

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Many kids take their parents for granted and don't think about how much work parents actually do around the house, like cooking and cleaning. This was the case in the Thomson family. Mrs. Thomson constantly had to pick up smelly socks from the bathroom floor, and Mr. Thomson found himself collecting dirty dishes from around the house, because the kids were always on their phones and couldn't be bothered to clean up after themselves. One day, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson realized that, unless some changes were made, their three children would become lazy. In addition, if the chores were shared, they'd have more quality family time.

They held a family meeting where they explained to their children Katie, Carl, and Phil that they had made some new family rules. Chores would be assigned to each family member. If a chore was not completed within the designated time, and there was no valid excuse, money would be deducted from the culprit's allowance. Also, the Wi-Fi password would be changed every day and would only be given out when homework was completed, unless the Internet was needed in order to do their homework.

At first, the kids were outraged! Nobody else's parents were this strict! Carl nearly started hyperventilating at the thought of not having unlimited Internet access. However, their parents explained that they were tired of cleaning up after them, and that working fulltime and having to do everything at home was just too much. The kids then realized that it was only fair that everybody pulled their weight.

Mrs. Thomson made a list and assigned chores to each person in the family, and Mr. Thomson made a weekly schedule to hang on the fridge. Even though Dad's white shirts sometimes turned pink because Phil forgot to separate the colors when doing the laundry, everyone seemed genuinely pleased and less stressed. Katie found herself looking forward to the day when it was her turn to cook dinner, and Carl learned that it was possible to have a life without being online all the time. With everyone pitching in, the family had more time to spend together.

What was the situation before the family meeting?

- ☐ The parents worked part time and were always exhausted.
- ☐ The children threw socks on the floor and broke dishes.
- ☐ The children were rude and had turned into spoiled brats.
- ☐ The parents tidied up after their children and were often tired.

◀ Forrige

1

...

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 22

QUESTION 5/5

Read the text. Click on the correct answer.

Many kids take their parents for granted and don't think about how much work parents actually do around the house, like cooking and cleaning. This was the case in the Thomson family. Mrs. Thomson constantly had to pick up smelly socks from the bathroom floor, and Mr. Thomson found himself collecting dirty dishes from around the house, because the kids were always on their phones and couldn't be bothered to clean up after themselves. One day, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson realized that, unless some changes were made, their three children would become lazy. In addition, if the chores were shared, they'd have more quality family time.

They held a family meeting where they explained to their children Katie, Carl, and Phil that they had made some new family rules. Chores would be assigned to each family member. If a chore was not completed within the designated time, and there was no valid excuse, money would be deducted from the culprit's allowance. Also, the Wi-Fi password would be changed every day and would only be given out when homework was completed, unless the Internet was needed in order to do their homework.

At first, the kids were outraged! Nobody else's parents were this strict! Carl nearly started hyperventilating at the thought of not having unlimited Internet access. However, their parents explained that they were tired of cleaning up after them, and that working fulltime and having to do everything at home was just too much. The kids then realized that it was only fair that everybody pulled their weight.

Mrs. Thomson made a list and assigned chores to each person in the family, and Mr. Thomson made a weekly schedule to hang on the fridge. Even though Dad's white shirts sometimes turned pink because Phil forgot to separate the colors when doing the laundry, everyone seemed genuinely pleased and less stressed. Katie found herself looking forward to the day when it was her turn to cook dinner, and Carl learned that it was possible to have a life without being online all the time. With everyone pitching in, the family had more time to spend together.

Which of the following is true, according to the text?

- ☐ Phil became very good at doing laundry.
- ☐ Katie enjoyed preparing family meals.
- ☐ Carl loved life without the Internet.
- ☐ Mrs. Thomson made weekly schedules.

◀ Forrige

1

...

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 23

QUESTION 1/5

Read the text. Click on the name of the person who could be speaking.

Who could say: "I can't believe that the captain's wife and I have to defend the whole useless crew"?

Whilst pirates have been popular in films and TV shows in recent years, some real pirates are not so well known. The following pirates terrorised the seas hundreds of years ago, whether working for others or purely for themselves.

One of the most famous and feared pirates was Edward Teach, more commonly known as Blackbeard. As his name suggests, Blackbeard was said to have a large, black beard, and he often placed burning matches into it to intimidate enemies. Despite this, and the fact that he stole for a living, many accounts say that Blackbeard treated prisoners with respect as long as they cooperated with his crew and handed over their treasure! He was hunted by a British Navy captain named Robert Maynard, who engaged him in a major sea battle off the coast of a small Caribbean island. Blackbeard was killed by Robert Maynard's crew in this battle.

A pirate who is believed to have met Blackbeard a few times was the man known as Calico Jack. Originally a crew member working for another pirate, Charles Vane, Calico Jack took over the ship when the crew decided that Vane was a coward. Whilst not as feared as Blackbeard, Calico Jack stole a lot of treasure and captured many ships, using cunning tactics and intimidation. In addition, Calico Jack is believed to have been the first pirate to have flown the 'Jolly Roger', the skull and crossbones flag that we associate with pirates today. After a brief retirement, Calico Jack returned to piracy and was eventually captured and executed by sailors from the British Navy, who were able to sneak up on the crew while they were partying!

Another well-known member of Calico Jack's crew was one of the world's few female pirates, Anne Bonny. She was originally married to a pirate named James Bonny, before falling in love with Calico Jack. She became disappointed with James Bonny because he abandoned the pirate life in order to help the government catch pirates. She married Calico Jack and joined him in plundering ships and capturing other pirates, and she was at the party in which Calico Jack and his crew were captured. Most accounts say that Anne Bonny and another female pirate, Mary Read, were among the few pirates who tried to fight the British sailors as the others were too busy with the party! Most believe that Anne Bonny and Mary Read were able to avoid execution when they claimed they were pregnant.

Ditt svar:

Oppgave 24

QUESTION 2/5

Read the text. Click on the name of the person who could be speaking.

Who could say: "My crew and I love to have parties, but this one hasn't ended well for us"?

Whilst pirates have been popular in films and TV shows in recent years, some real pirates are not so well known. The following pirates terrorised the seas hundreds of years ago, whether working for others or purely for themselves.

One of the most famous and feared pirates was Edward Teach, more commonly known as Blackbeard. As his name suggests, Blackbeard was said to have a large, black beard, and he often placed burning matches into it to intimidate enemies. Despite this, and the fact that he stole for a living, many accounts say that Blackbeard treated prisoners with respect as long as they cooperated with his crew and handed over their treasure! He was hunted by a British Navy captain named Robert Maynard, who engaged him in a major sea battle off the coast of a small Caribbean island. Blackbeard was killed by Robert Maynard's crew in this battle.

A pirate who is believed to have met Blackbeard a few times was the man known as Calico Jack. Originally a crew member working for another pirate, Charles Vane, Calico Jack took over the ship when the crew decided that Vane was a coward. Whilst not as feared as Blackbeard, Calico Jack stole a lot of treasure and captured many ships, using cunning tactics and intimidation. In addition, Calico Jack is believed to have been the first pirate to have flown the 'Jolly Roger', the skull and crossbones flag that we associate with pirates today. After a brief retirement, Calico Jack returned to piracy and was eventually captured and executed by sailors from the British Navy, who were able to sneak up on the crew while they were partying!

Another well-known member of Calico Jack's crew was one of the world's few female pirates, Anne Bonny. She was originally married to a pirate named James Bonny, before falling in love with Calico Jack. She became disappointed with James Bonny because he abandoned the pirate life in order to help the government catch pirates. She married Calico Jack and joined him in plundering ships and capturing other pirates, and she was at the party in which Calico Jack and his crew were captured. Most accounts say that Anne Bonny and another female pirate, Mary Read, were among the few pirates who tried to fight the British sailors as the others were too busy with the party! Most believe that Anne Bonny and Mary Read were able to avoid execution when they claimed they were pregnant.

Ditt svar:

◀ Forrige

1

...

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 25

QUESTION 3/5

Read the text. Click on the name of the person who could be speaking.

Who could say: "They gave me all their gold so I see no need to harm this crew"?

Whilst pirates have been popular in films and TV shows in recent years, some real pirates are not so well known. The following pirates terrorised the seas hundreds of years ago, whether working for others or purely for themselves.

One of the most famous and feared pirates was Edward Teach, more commonly known as Blackbeard. As his name suggests, Blackbeard was said to have a large, black beard, and he often placed burning matches into it to intimidate enemies. Despite this, and the fact that he stole for a living, many accounts say that Blackbeard treated prisoners with respect as long as they cooperated with his crew and handed over their treasure! He was hunted by a British Navy captain named Robert Maynard, who engaged him in a major sea battle off the coast of a small Caribbean island. Blackbeard was killed by Robert Maynard's crew in this battle.

A pirate who is believed to have met Blackbeard a few times was the man known as Calico Jack. Originally a crew member working for another pirate, Charles Vane, Calico Jack took over the ship when the crew decided that Vane was a coward. Whilst not as feared as Blackbeard, Calico Jack stole a lot of treasure and captured many ships, using cunning tactics and intimidation. In addition, Calico Jack is believed to have been the first pirate to have flown the 'Jolly Roger', the skull and crossbones flag that we associate with pirates today. After a brief retirement, Calico Jack returned to piracy and was eventually captured and executed by sailors from the British Navy, who were able to sneak up on the crew while they were partying!

Another well-known member of Calico Jack's crew was one of the world's few female pirates, Anne Bonny. She was originally married to a pirate named James Bonny, before falling in love with Calico Jack. She became disappointed with James Bonny because he abandoned the pirate life in order to help the government catch pirates. She married Calico Jack and joined him in plundering ships and capturing other pirates, and she was at the party in which Calico Jack and his crew were captured. Most accounts say that Anne Bonny and another female pirate, Mary Read, were among the few pirates who tried to fight the British sailors as the others were too busy with the party! Most believe that Anne Bonny and Mary Read were able to avoid execution when they claimed they were pregnant.

Ditt svar:

Oppgave 26

QUESTION 4/5

Read the text. Click on the name of the person who could be speaking.

Who could say: "How dare the crew rebel against me after all I've done for them"?

Whilst pirates have been popular in films and TV shows in recent years, some real pirates are not so well known. The following pirates terrorised the seas hundreds of years ago, whether working for others or purely for themselves.

One of the most famous and feared pirates was Edward Teach, more commonly known as Blackbeard. As his name suggests, Blackbeard was said to have a large, black beard, and he often placed burning matches into it to intimidate enemies. Despite this, and the fact that he stole for a living, many accounts say that Blackbeard treated prisoners with respect as long as they cooperated with his crew and handed over their treasure! He was hunted by a British Navy captain named Robert Maynard, who engaged him in a major sea battle off the coast of a small Caribbean island. Blackbeard was killed by Robert Maynard's crew in this battle.

A pirate who is believed to have met Blackbeard a few times was the man known as Calico Jack. Originally a crew member working for another pirate, Charles Vane, Calico Jack took over the ship when the crew decided that Vane was a coward. Whilst not as feared as Blackbeard, Calico Jack stole a lot of treasure and captured many ships, using cunning tactics and intimidation. In addition, Calico Jack is believed to have been the first pirate to have flown the 'Jolly Roger', the skull and crossbones flag that we associate with pirates today. After a brief retirement, Calico Jack returned to piracy and was eventually captured and executed by sailors from the British Navy, who were able to sneak up on the crew while they were partying!

Another well-known member of Calico Jack's crew was one of the world's few female pirates, Anne Bonny. She was originally married to a pirate named James Bonny, before falling in love with Calico Jack. She became disappointed with James Bonny because he abandoned the pirate life in order to help the government catch pirates. She married Calico Jack and joined him in plundering ships and capturing other pirates, and she was at the party in which Calico Jack and his crew were captured. Most accounts say that Anne Bonny and another female pirate, Mary Read, were among the few pirates who tried to fight the British sailors as the others were too busy with the party! Most believe that Anne Bonny and Mary Read were able to avoid execution when they claimed they were pregnant.

Ditt svar:

Oppgave 27

QUESTION 5/5

Read the text. Click on the name of the person who could be speaking.

Who could say: "I am more than just the captain's wife, I am a fierce pirate"?

Whilst pirates have been popular in films and TV shows in recent years, some real pirates are not so well known. The following pirates terrorised the seas hundreds of years ago, whether working for others or purely for themselves.

One of the most famous and feared pirates was Edward Teach, more commonly known as Blackbeard. As his name suggests, Blackbeard was said to have a large, black beard, and he often placed burning matches into it to intimidate enemies. Despite this, and the fact that he stole for a living, many accounts say that Blackbeard treated prisoners with respect as long as they cooperated with his crew and handed over their treasure! He was hunted by a British Navy captain named Robert Maynard, who engaged him in a major sea battle off the coast of a small Caribbean island. Blackbeard was killed by Robert Maynard's crew in this battle.

A pirate who is believed to have met Blackbeard a few times was the man known as Calico Jack. Originally a crew member working for another pirate, Charles Vane, Calico Jack took over the ship when the crew decided that Vane was a coward. Whilst not as feared as Blackbeard, Calico Jack stole a lot of treasure and captured many ships, using cunning tactics and intimidation. In addition, Calico Jack is believed to have been the first pirate to have flown the 'Jolly Roger', the skull and crossbones flag that we associate with pirates today. After a brief retirement, Calico Jack returned to piracy and was eventually captured and executed by sailors from the British Navy, who were able to sneak up on the crew while they were partying!

Another well-known member of Calico Jack's crew was one of the world's few female pirates, Anne Bonny. She was originally married to a pirate named James Bonny, before falling in love with Calico Jack. She became disappointed with James Bonny because he abandoned the pirate life in order to help the government catch pirates. She married Calico Jack and joined him in plundering ships and capturing other pirates, and she was at the party in which Calico Jack and his crew were captured. Most accounts say that Anne Bonny and another female pirate, Mary Read, were among the few pirates who tried to fight the British sailors as the others were too busy with the party! Most believe that Anne Bonny and Mary Read were able to avoid execution when they claimed they were pregnant.

Ditt svar:

◀ Forrige

1

...

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 28

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Click on the word that means almost the same as 'established'.

In 1934, Tadao Yoshida founded a company that became the world's leading zipper manufacturer in Tokyo, Japan. Nearly every step of the zipper-making process happens under the company's roof to ensure quality. Mr Yoshida does not outsource any part of the zipper production to other businesses. In fact, not only do they make the zippers, but also the machines that make the zippers, as well as the boxes they ship the zippers in!

Ditt svar:

◀ Forrige

1

...

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 29

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Click on the word that, in this context, means the same as 'told'.

A man from Germany received a strange surprise recently, when he went to his local post office to collect a parcel. Stefan Stasmann, a 39-year-old from Berlin, was expecting a set of headphones he'd ordered from an online retailer but, when he got to the post office, he found that there were 17 huge packages with his name on them! Each one of the large boxes contained a full-size double bed! Stefan contacted customer service, who informed him that there had been some confusion at the warehouse and he had received the wrong goods. The unlucky German joked that, after sending him all those beds, he wondered how the company could sleep at night!

Ditt svar:

◀ Forrige

1

...

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 30

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Click on the word that, in this context, means the same as 'brutal'.

One of the closest relatives to human beings was the now-extinct Neanderthal species. They lived as recently as 40,000 years ago, which means that they were on the planet at the same time as early humans. Despite being 99.7% identical on a genetic level, humans were able to outlive their Neanderthal 'cousins'. Nobody is quite sure why the Neanderthals became extinct, but the most popular theories are changes in climate, violent altercations with humans, or even breeding with humans, causing them to be eliminated by evolution. Whatever the truth about their extinction, it is clear that there has never been a closer relative living on Earth at the same time as humans.

Ditt svar:

← Forrige

1

...

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

34

...

40

Neste →

Oppgave 31

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Click on the word that, in this context, means the same as 'important'.

Most major events in Britain, such as sporting events and music festivals, take place in the summer. However, the British weather often spoils such plans! It is not unusual to see TV pictures of festival attendees wading through deep mud, or even to see their tents floating away! Sporting events, such as Wimbledon, the British Open and cricket matches are often postponed because of adverse weather conditions, even in the 'height of summer'. Some people would like events moved indoors to avoid these problems, whereas others feel that they would lose some of their magic by being moved indoors.

Ditt svar:

◀ Forrige

1

...

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

34

35

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 32

Read the text. Click on the correct word.

Click on the word that, in this context, means the same as 'under water'.

Many parts of the world, including some islands, are home to moose. But have you ever wondered how the moose reach these islands? They are actually born with an innate ability to swim, so even young calves have been seen swimming just days after birth! They can swim up to 10 km per hour, which is faster than most humans. Amazingly, moose can close their nostrils and slow down their respiratory rate so that they can stay submerged for long periods of time. It is believed that this has health benefits for the animals, as standing in water relieves some pressure on their bones and joints. In addition, a lot of their predators don't like being in the water!

Ditt svar:

← Forrige

1

...

28

29

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

...

40

Neste →

Oppgave 33

Complete the second sentence so that it means the same as the first sentence. Write one word in the gap.

David likes chocolate a lot more than Pete does.

Pete likes chocolate a lot than David does.

◀ Forrige

1

...

29

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 34

Complete the second sentence so that it means the same as the first sentence. Write two words in the gap.

Today's beautiful weather amazes Robert.

Robert by today's beautiful weather.

◀ Forrige

1

...

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

38

...

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 35

Complete the second sentence so that it means the same as the first sentence. Write three words in the gap.

Stuart said, "I'll be playing tennis when you arrive".

Stuart said that he tennis when I arrived.

◀ Forrige

1

...

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

38

39

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 36

Complete the second sentence so that it follows on from the first sentence. Write 1-3 words in the gap.

The wind strength is still measuring 60 knots, indicating a violent storm.

However, not as strong as last night.

◀ Forrige

1

...

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

38

39

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 37

Complete the second sentence so that it follows on from the first sentence. Write 1-2 words in the gap.

Andrew and his dad are on a hike looking for stones to use to decorate their garden.

They really want any large rocks or boulders, so they only look for small stones.

◀ Forrige

1

...

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

38

39

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 38

Complete the text. Write one word in each gap.

It was Clive's birthday. He had invited all his friends, and was only one way he wanted to celebrate: by visiting the new all-you-can-eat Chinese buffet restaurant in town! Clive loved Chinese food, especially spring rolls, and thought this would be a perfect birthday treat. However, when birthday came around, Clive had a really heavy cold and hardly had any appetite. He ended up spending his birthday eating hot soup drinking tea. It was just typical!

< Forrige

1

...

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

38

39

40

Neste >

Oppgave 39

Complete the text. Write one word in each gap.

How was business conducted before the invention of money? Well, people would trade foods, animals and other things owned. Livestock was the most valuable product, while tools, spices, crops and beads also used as currency. The first standardised coins were introduced in 790 AD in western Turkey.

A copper shortage led to China introducing the world's first paper money 900 AD, which was 700 years before Europe. Today, there are 180 different currencies in circulation around the world.

◀ Forrige

1

...

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

38

39

40

Neste ▶

Oppgave 40

Read the paragraphs below. Click on the arrows to put the paragraphs in the correct order. The first paragraph is given.

Do we spend too much time on our smartphones? Some people believe that we do, others disagree. Some of those who think that we use them too much believe that smartphone use is becoming an addiction.

These measures to limit smartphone use are of course not 100% foolproof; phone use will only decrease if we really want to reduce it. Not everybody thinks that phone use is a problem, and they argue that being constantly connected to the world is a good thing.

Ned
↓

In order to avoid losing focus on other things, different measures have been suggested to limit our smartphone use a little. For example, some experts suggest moving apps from the home screen, so that we would have to actively look for them if we want to use them. This takes away the temptation to simply click on an app because you see it. This could break the cycle of checking multiple apps when you might have just needed to check one.

Opp
↑

Ned
↓

There is no doubt that being connected all the time has its advantages, such as access to up-to-date information, the ability to communicate whenever you like, and just plain entertainment when you're bored. Whatever you think about phone use, it is clear that there are ways we can control what we do with our phones. Everything can be good in moderation!

Opp
↑

Ned
↓

Evidence for smartphone use being almost like an addiction has been presented by psychologists, who say that, when not at school or work, we check our phones every 15 minutes or less. This means that we lose focus on other things that we do, whether it be homework, housework, or even something as basic as a conversation.

Opp
↑

Ned
↓

Another measure that has been suggested, one that is perhaps more unexpected, is to filter the colours on the home screen. Most phones allow the user to change the entire screen to a shade of grey. Psychologists believe that bright colours provide our brains with a small 'reward' so frequent checking of phones can provide this 'reward'. Removing the colours could remove the temptation for our brains to constantly look at phone screens.

Opp
↑

< Forrige

1

...

30

31

32

33

34

35

36

37

38

39

40

→ Lever prøve